

Hardships often prepare ordinary people for extraordinary destiny.

-- C.S. Lewis

Grace Street is recovery community organization (RCO) dedicated to saving lives and fostering healing for anyone affected by substance use disorder.

We are the Mid-Shore's sole RCO and provide evening and weekend hours of peer-centric supports for people affected by substance use disorder. Our peers help identify needs and barriers, then work toward addressing those gaps to create and sustain healthy, stable lives.

Grace Street offers harm reduction services including the region's first and only harm reduction vending machine, which includes Narcan, Fentanyl test strips and Xylazine test strips. We also conduct street outreach.

Contact

410.690.7353

8262 Ocean Gateway, Suite 1
Easton, MD 21601

GraceStreetRecovery.org

This project is supported by Maryland's Office of Overdose Response . The views presented here are those of the grantee organization and not necessarily those of the MOOR, its Executive Director, or its staff.. The views presented here are those of the grantee organization and not necessarily those of the MOOR, its Executive Director, or its staff.

Chesapeake Charities, a community foundation that proactively addresses community needs, administers the Grace Street project.

grace·street
a recovery community org

Welcome to Grace Street, a recovery community organization on Maryland's Eastern Shore.

Grace Street offers FREE, non-clinical, peer-centered support to people affected by substance use disorder. Our hub and spoke approach helps bridge the gap between treatment and building a successful life.

Our services include peer recovery support, workforce training and development; empowerment activities; harm reduction resources including Narcan and Fentanyl and Xylazine test strips; youth programming; life skills support; support groups and outreach.

Our center is open to anyone affected by substance use disorder, including family, loved ones, friends, co-workers, etc.

We respect all pathways and are not affiliated with any 12-step groups or programs.

Community Partnerships

Building community takes a village - we need people like you to embrace our program through partnerships including referrals, resource sharing, business partnerships, and more.

Workforce Partnerships

We need local businesses (or work from home businesses) who want to work with us toward innovative solutions for hiring challenges. Securing stable employment is a key component of building a healthy, productive life, and it isn't possible without business partnerships.

If you own or manage a business and would like to discuss how you can partner with Grace Street, please contact Kelley Callaghan, Marketing & Outreach Director, at marketing@gracestreetrecovery.org.

Recovery Capital

Grace Street helps build recovery capital, which includes external and internal resources someone can access to initiate and maintain recovery.

Grace Street is committed to partnerships that help ensure recovery resource racial equity for all marginalized groups.

Grace Street serves people in Easton and Talbot County, and in neighboring counties across the Mid-Shore. Referrals are not necessary and services are free.

Center hours include nights and weekends, and some transportation is available. Contact our Director, Kate Dulin, for services at director@gracestreetrecovery.org, call us at 410-690-7353, or stop by.

We help people build healthy lives.